
ETECSA offers web hosting services for natural persons

30/04/2019

Cuban Telecommunications Company (ETECSA) will start marketing, as of today, the service of hosting of websites for natural people.

According to a press release from the entity's Institutional Communication Department, ETECSA's Data Center provides customers with a storage system of information, images or other accessible via web, guaranteeing its Internet presence pages with more direct and economic access from Cuba.

The offers of the service, adjustable to the interests and needs of the client, as well as as well as their characteristics, can be known by calling 118, Commercial Information or by consulting the website www.etecsa.cu, which can be accessed free of charge from the cell phone.

The expansion of Internet access routes for the population and the development of national content sites, as part of the computerisation strategy of the society, have promoted the demand for this service that was initially only available to the business sector.
