10/04/2015

As expressed by the singer-songwriter, the video clip of five years ago had many national codes and was intended only for the Cuban audience, while this time the band intends to give a more international dimension to the topics covered by the song under the direction of Jose Rojas.

"We want to show a diverse, daily and coexistence image of the island without stereotypes, therefore; the audiovisual is being recorded amid a rehearse of Buena Fe visited by friends, children, youth, and all kinds of people, who make up this simple and fun Cuba", said Israel Rojas to the Cuban News Agency (AIN).

Finally, Yoel Martinez, founder and member of Buena Fe, said that the duo will release late next May, a compilation album entitled "Soy", with nearly twenty versions of their most popular songs and some new compositions.
