10/06/2014

Cuba reiterated last Monday its denunciation against the violations of the human rights and the State Law that represents the economic, commercial and financial blockade imposed by Washington to the Caribbean island.

We strongly condemned every law and unilateral, extraterritorial policy. Cuba demands the immediate end to the system of norms and measures that's the blockade", expressed the ambassador to United Nations, Rodolfo Reyes, during the first session of a meeting about the contribution of human rights and the State Law to development.

The Cuban diplomat urged the White House to end the policy established more than half a century ago, and he also demanded respect from this nation to the universal appeal to end the blockade.
