
Prime Minister of St. Kitts and Nevis Arrived in Cuba

24/06/2014

The Prime Minister of St. Kitts and Nevis, Denzil Douglas, arrived in Cuba as part of an official visit that will last until next Thursday. Upon arrival at the international airport Jose Marti, in this capital, the head of government was welcomed by the Cuban Deputy Foreign Minister Rogelio Sierra.

Douglas will hold talks with the Cuban President, Raul Castro, and will preside tomorrow the opening of the embassy of his country in Havana.

He will also pay tribute to the National Hero, Jose Marti, at the monument located in Revolution Square in Havana, dedicated to the Cuban independence hero.
