
Yoko Ono Joins Bill Murray For Wes Anderson's New Animated Film, 'Isle of Dogs'

22/12/2016

Yoko Ono will join the cast of Wes Anderson's next film, the animated Isle of Dogs, alongside Bill Murray, Jeff Goldblum, Scarlett Johansson, Bryan Cranston, Edward Norton and more.

Production has begun in London for the stop-motion flick about a group of dogs living on an island, Anderson shared in a video announcement Wednesday (Dec. 21).

The director's highly anticipated follow-up to 2014's The Grand Budapest Hotel also enlists Tilda Swinton, Liev Schreiber, Frances McDormand and Harvey Keitel.

By donating $10 to a fundraising contest, fans have a chance to tour the set and voice a dog in the movie. The money raised will support Martin Scorsese's The Film Foundation non-profit organization, which preserves and restores films.

See Ed Norton interrupt Anderson's announcement, featuring a quick shot of Norton's character, Rex:

Wes Anderson presents his new feature film 'Isle of Dogs'
